Hit-and-run case atop Chamundi Hill

City Police hunt for killer vehicle

Mysuru, July 8 (MTY&BCT)- The City Police are zeroing-in on the vehicle that killed 21-year-old M.C. Namana and Aravinda Rao atop Chamundi Hill on Thursday night.

Namana

The Police have identified the vehicle as Hyundai Creta and four teams have been formed and CCTV camera footages are being screened to trace the killer vehicle that sped away after the accident. The Creta had collided with Aravinda Rao's bike near the Watch Tower Junction on Friday evening. While Aravinda died the same day while being shifted to a hospital, Namana, who was riding pillion, was declared brain dead a day later. Her vital organs were harvested and a 'green corridor' was created yesterday morning between Mysuru and Bengaluru to transport the organs.

After causing the accident, the Creta sped away and now the Police are on a hot chase of the vehicle and have formed four teams for the same. Speaking to Star of Mysore this morning, Siddarthanagar Traffic Inspector Muniyappa said that they had recovered a piece of the bumper of the vehicle and the side-view mirror from the accident spot.

"When we showed the vehicle pieces at a couple of showrooms, they informed us that the pieces were from a Hyundai Creta. We are tracing all Creta vehicle owners in Mysuru, K.R. Nagar, Hunsur, H.D. Kote and Nanjangud. If required, we will spread the search," he said.

International Jawa Day celebrated in city

Mysuru, July 8 (MTY&KS)- Jawa and Yezdi bikes, which had ruled the roads way back in the 70s and the 80s, vroomed on the main thoroughfares in city to mark International Jawa Day this morning.

International Jawa Day is celebrated on the second Sunday of July every year to mark the start of production of these motorbikes in the 1960s. Not only vehicles manufactured at the facility in Mysuru till 1996, even motorcycles imported from Czechoslovakia are paraded at the rally every year.

While members of Jawa-Yezdi Club, Mysuru, numbering about 70 took out a rally in city, nearly 100 members of Jawa Friends Club Mysore took out a rally up to Bandipur Gate.

The rally in city began at about 11 am after Yaduveer Krishnadatta Chamaraja Wadiyar took a look at these Made-in-Mysore bikes at the Golf Club on Maharana Pratap Road.

Speaking on the occasion, Yaduveer said that the Ideal Jawa Factory, started by late F.K. Irani which once stood in Yadavagiri was inaugurated by his grandfather the then Governor of Mysore State, Sri Jayachamaraja Wadiyar, the erstwhile Maharaja of Mysore in 1961.

He said that though the factory closed down due to various reasons, one can still see some Jawa and Yezdi bikes still vrooming on city roads and expressed his happiness to see many vintage bikes taking part in the rally.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

If you regularly, or occasionally, take any form of public transport — metro, bus, plane, train — or frequent crowded public places like shopping malls and markets, the chances are that you've encountered a kind of accidental terrorism. These accidental, or unintentional terrorists, are called backpackers. People — of all ages and both genders — who go about with large packs strapped onto their backs. It is an abiding mystery to non-backpackers as to what these packs might contain. The person whose back is carrying the pack might be on a simple evening or afternoon outing, with family and friends, like taking in a movie, or going for a pizza. So why, then, the necessity to lumber oneself with the size, shape and, possibly, weight of something which resembles what mountaineers scaling Everest perforce have to lug with them when they try to scale the highest peak in the world? What do backpackers pack into their backpacks? Water bottles, emergency food rations, other survival equipment, like oxygen cylinders or blood transfusion kits, just in case they are suddenly faced with a life-or limb-threatening situation?

The problem is that it's not the backpackers whose limbs, if not lives, are likely to be threatened, but the limbs of non-backpackers who become the inadvertent target of the backpackers' backpacks. Not being able to gauge how much space their backpacks are taking up behind their backs, backpackers are a menace to non-backpackers into whose faces they slam their packs like battering rams, every time they take a step back, or turn around.

Rumour has it that global intelligence agencies are investigating if there is a sinister conspiracy behind this accidental terrorism. Is it being backed — without the backpackers themselves being aware of it — by a certain entity known to be a source of more lethal forms of terrorism? Should the backpack be spelt as back-Pak?

Lost ring found around carrot after 13 years !

Ottawa: A woman, who had lost her engagement ring in 2004 has found it wrapped around a carrot when her daughter-in-law plucked a weird-looking carrot from the garden, with a diamond ring tightly wrapped around it recently.

About a week ago, as her daughter in law was plucking carrots from the garden, she noticed a really misshapen one that looked like a big fat finger wearing a very tight ring.

It turned out that the vegetable was actually wearing a ring. Mary Grams was obviously ecstatic to get her old piece of jewelry back, and she intends to put it back on her finger, where it belongs. "I'm going to wear it because it still fits," she said.

7-year-old's 'Uncombable Hair Syndrome'

Melborne: Shilah, a 7-year-old girl from Melbourne, Australia, was born with normal hair, but her parents noticed a strawberry blond fuzz growing on her scalp when she was 3-months-old. From then on, her hair started growing straight out and became even blonder. The girl noticed her unusual hair when she was about 4, after it started getting a lot of attention from other children and adults. It made her feel uneasy at first, but after her parents told her it was special, she embraced her unique look.

The unruly hair is very tough to manage. Her mother sprays it with a detangling solution every morning, and spends 10-20 minutes combing it very gently with a wide-tooth comb. Her father then blow-dries to make it nice and fluffy, just the way Shilah likes it. According to the National Institute of Health, uncombable hair syndrome usually appears during childhood and is more frequent in children with silvery-blond or straw-colored hair.

Many public toilets awaiting inauguration

Sir,

Apropos the news item warning the general public not to urinate in public, it is laudable that the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) has and is being constructed/constructing public toilets.

Though the intentions are very clear and appreciable, still there are a number of toilets already constructed that have not been inaugurated at all. For instance, there is a public toilet constructed two years ago at Krishnamurthypuram which is yet to be opened for reasons best known to the Corporation authorities.

I being a regular commuter on this road, have seen people urinating on the walls of this toilet. Will the MCC take necessary steps to start using this toilet and maintain it properly?

Apart from this one case, there may be several toilets constructed and not put into use. Steps may be taken to put into use such toilets also.

Issue of Trade Licence

Sir,

On enquiring about the delay in issuing Trade Licence by Mysuru City Corporation (MCC), I was surprised to learn that since February 2018, there are some issues for generating the trade licences "online" and MCC is still sorting out the issues.

When the staff at various zonal offices of MCC feeds all the necessary inputs to generate the trade licence, they are unable to get the print out of the trade licence.

Karnataka being a pioneer in computer technology, I wonder why the outsourced agency for computer applications in MCC is lacking the skills or man-power to set right the issues.

Probably merit of the competing outsourced agencies would have taken a backseat under other considerations.

Tribals leading a miserable life in Periyapatna taluk

By H.D. Ramesh

Solar fences that have been erected to prevent wild elephants from venturing into human habitat areas at Periyapatna are preventing the tribals from free movement restricting them to their houses.

Periyapatna, July 8- Tribals are one of the most vulnerable groups in India and despite crores of money being spent on various Government policies and programmes, they remain the most excluded and live in miserable conditions. This is due to various factors such as geographical isolation, lack of political will, poor healthcare delivery systems, beliefs and customs.

Exclusion from development has adversely affected tribal children. An amalgamation of factors such as socio-economic condition — poverty, high illiteracy, absence of safe drinking water, poor sanitary living conditions and lack of awareness — contributes to dismal health conditions among tribal populations.

Like many tribals across the country who are living in abject poverty and pitiable conditions, Bokke Girijana Tribal Hamlet in Periyapatna, coming under Naviluru Gram Panchayat limits, are also leading a miserable life as they too are deprived of basic Government facilities.

About 25 families live in this tiny tribal hamlet amidst thick forest, always facing a threat from wild animals, especially elephants that come in search of food and destroy their thatched huts.

These Jenukuruba tribals eke out a living selling honey, bamboo products, gooseberry, soap nut, etc. While some make a living by selling forest produce, other tribals go in search of field and estate work in neighbouring Kodagu in order to take care of their families.

Under community forestry, the Union Government's Ministry of Tribal Welfare has issued title deeds for community forest resources. Girijana Tribals living in 190-hectare area located between Naviluru village's Jameenu Dodda Harave Reserve Forest Area and Tibetan Naviluru village have been distributed title deeds. As per the deed, tribals get the right to use forest produce, burial grounds and temples.

But as it is a community title deed, the government has not issued individual title deeds. If individual title deeds are distributed, tribals can cultivate products that suit their needs. These tribals said that they have no documents to prove that they are individual title deed holders. Officers who had sanctioned loans to the tribals under community title deeds earlier are now demanding documents, they alleged.

In the absence of individual title deeds, the tribals are restricted to only limited opportunities within the existing scheme of things without any scope for development and extension. Extension of land is not possible legally and the tribals have to manage whatever that has been given to them, said Ramegowda, Assistant Director, Periyapatna Taluk Social Welfare Department.

Tribals living in areas including Karadibokke, Malaganakere, Hosurukere, Halekere, Maralukatte, Abbalathi A and B, Varthi, Uthenahalli, Ranigate have neither been issued community title deeds nor has the government provided any facilities.

Some tribals have complained that the solar fence, erected to prevent wild animals from entering human habitat areas, has hindered their movement within the forest.

Highlighting that there is no lighting facility in the hamlet, the tribals say that there are many instances where tribal children have fallen into the pits meant for installing solar fence and got injured. They also accuse Forest Department officials of placing unnecessary hurdles in order to restrict their movement.

Alleging that the Forest Department officials were not allowing them to grow roots and fibres in their surroundings, the tribals also say that they are not satisfied with the ration provided by the government. The government does not distribute rations according to family strength but randomly gives 15 kgs of rice, dal, pulses, jaggery and eggs per family. If the family strength is big, the rations get over in 15 days, they said.

Listing the problems faced by them, tribal leader Ramesh says that what the tribals need is individual title deeds more than community title deeds.

Meanwhile, Particularly Vulnerable Tribal Groups (PVTGS) Member Madhukumar said that he will take a delegation to Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy and apprise him of the issues that have been bothering the tribals. He will also demand the CM to take measures for issuing individual title deeds to tribals as it would help them largely.

Loan waiver: Farmers to protest in Bengaluru tomorrow

Bengaluru, July 8- Upset with Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy (HDK) for not keeping his promise of a "full waiver," farmers have now decided to stage a State-wide protest demanding waiver of all loans to the tune of a whopping Rs.1.20 lakh crore.

The first protest by farmers will be held in Bengaluru on July 9 (tomorrow) to press the government to waive all existing farm loans, irrespective of the amount and size of land holdings.

"With this waiver, Kumaraswamy has only tried to pacify farmers, but who will reimburse the remaining Rs.86,000 crore loans? The State, as well as the Central Governments, has to waive these loans immediately, or else we will be pushed to take up massive protests," warned Kodihalli Chandrashekhar, President, Karnataka Rajya Raitha Sangha (KRRS).

"Farmers' suicides are continuing till date because many of them are not getting the benefits of the waiver. We appeal to Kumaraswamy, B.S. Yeddyurappa and Prime Minister Narendra Modi to keep their politics aside and help farmers. Saving them from the vicious cycle of debt is their responsibility," Chandrashekhar added.

Sleepy driver plunges car into pond

An exhausted and a sleepy car driver drove his vehicle straight into a pond last night at K.R. Pet. Fortunately, the driver managed to escape and there were no other passengers. The incident occurred at Neralakatte village in K.R. Pet taluk when the car driver Naveen Kumar of Kurrenahalli village was coming to K.R. Pet and he was apparently tired due to continuous driving. As he was negotiating a curve near the pond, he lost control over the vehicle and drove it into the water. Fortunately, Naveen Kumar managed to open the vehicle's door and move out. Police and Fire Services personnel were trying hard this morning to retrieve the car. Villagers have demanded the Panchayat authorities to construct a retaining wall by the side of the pond.

Minister S.R. Mahesh begins
'Grama Vastavya' at Haradanahalli

Mysuru, July 8- Tourism and Sericulture Minister S.R. Mahesh stayed at Haradanahalli in K.R. Nagar taluk on Friday as part of his 'Grama Vastavya' programme.

Hundreds of villagers from Haradanahalli, Lakkikuppe and Lakkikuppe Koppalu had come to see the Minister and air their grievances.

Mentioning that the intention behind such 'Grama Vastavya' was to better understand the plight of farmers, Mahesh said that he will hold such a programme every month. He said that he would hear farmers' grievances, and try to resolve them at the earliest.

"Grama Vastavya is Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy's dream project and I will stay in a village on the first Saturday of every month. The district-level officials will participate in the programme and we will try to resolve the people's issues by reaching them at their village," he said.

The Minister stayed at the home of a farmer Ananthu, of Haradanahalli, which comes under the K.R. Nagar Assembly constituency, which he represents. Mahesh performed puja at Ballur Katte before releasing water to the Chamaraja right and left bank canals for agriculture.

As he arrived at the village, Mahesh received a rousing welcome with hundreds of villagers, party workers and government officials lining up to welcome him. After reaching the village at 10.30 pm, the Minister held a meeting with the officials and collected details about the problems under the Grama Panchayat limits.

Mahesh said that with this programme, the villagers will get a relief as they need not visit the government offices for getting their works done. "We will try to resolve the problem on the spot," he said.

"Officials have been visiting the village for the past one month and have been listening to the grievances of the farming community. There are problems of streetlights, poor roads, Khata transfer, delay in issuing pensions, etc, which will be resolved," Mahesh said. He received several complaints from the villagers.

Deputy Commissioner Abhiram G. Sankar, Zilla Panchayat CEO P. Shivashankar, Hunsur Assistant Commissioner Nitish and other officers were present.

Ivory Wood Tree

A nature's gift for making Channapatna toys

There are trees known as multipurpose trees (MPT) used for different purposes. A few provide timber for commercial purposes but endowed with medicinal properties besides being ornamental. "The Ivory Wood" tree, used for making Channapatna toys, belongs to this category. The wood turns to ivory colour with age. That is why the name.

A tree from the wild introduced to urban environs, it is one of the most beautiful avenue trees of Mysuru and attracts passersby during summer months with its handsome blooms of white, star-shaped vanilla scented showy flowers. Other common names are 'Sweet Indrajao', 'Pala', 'Dyer's Oleander' or 'Dyer's Indigo'. Vernacular names are — Kannada: Beppale, Alemara, Kodesige, Ajamara, Kodamurki; Tamil: Vetpalai, Irumpalai; Telugu: Repala, Tedlapala, Jediapala; Malayalam: Mayilampaala, Nettampala; Hindi: Dudhi, Indrajau; Sanskrit: Krishna Katuja. The scientific name is Wrightia tinctoria, belonging to the family Apocyanaeceae. The generic name 'Wrightia' is in honour of William Wright, the 19th Century Scottish Physician and Botanist. The specific name "tinctoria" refers to "tinct" in Latin meaning "dyed, tinged". The tree is native to India, Sri Lanka and Myanmar. It is common in deciduous forests of North West and Central India and Southern Peninsula.

"Wrightia tinctoria" is a small or medium-sized deciduous tree with slender cord-like branches often attaining a height of 25 ft! The tree exudes a cream coloured latex. The bark is light grey, scaly and smooth but becomes fissured when old. The leaves are simple, in opposite pairs, softly downy with a very short stalk, elliptic, ovate with an acute or oblong base with prominent lateral nerves (5-10 pairs). The flowers are arranged in sloppy terminal cymes, appear along with new leaves. They are fragrant, white, about 3 cm wide with twisty petals. Sepals are glabrous, glandular inside, oblong with membranous margins. The petals salver-shaped with a short corolla tube with an appendage (corona) of numerous linear scales around the stamens, which form a cone at the centre. The ovary 2 carpelled, free, many ovuled, usually with a toothed basal ring. Fruit technically called a pair of cylindrical follicle, very long, tapering at both ends and joined at the tips (special characteristic) contains seeds appended with hairs (basal coma).

TREE FACTS

USEFUL TIPS

- It is a choice tree for medicinal gardens and forest areas.
- A petite tree, it is suitable for small avenues and a perfect specimen for limited space and can be easily grown as a houseplant.
- For best growth, the tree needs full sunlight and moderate watering. Does not do well in water stagnation.
- It is often confused with "Holarrhena antidysentrica" and can be distinguished by (a) The organisation of its paired follicle, which is joined at the end only and (b) Presence of corollary corona (scaly & hairy like structures) at the throat of the corolla tube surrounding the stamens.
- It attracts butterflies and humming birds.
- Sometimes, the tree is subjected to fungal diseases/ pests and can be overcome by spraying common pesticides and fungicides.

USES

Toys: The highly valuable wood is used for making celebrated "Channapatna toys". The timber is uniformly white and used for all classes of turnery. It can be made into pen-holders, combs, splints, bobbins, printing blocks etc. Wood is also used for stained wood inlay work.

Medicinal uses: Described in classical Ayurvedic texts as Shwetha kutaja and seeds known as Indrayava, the plant parts (leaves, bark and seeds) possess therapeutic properties and used in ayurvedic preparations. The plant is supposed to pacify vitiated tridoshas: fever, stomach ache and skin diseases. Leaf extracts for psoriasis is a traditional remedy in the Siddha system of medicine. The fresh leaves are pungent and relieve tooth pain when chewed. The bark is specially used in piles, skin diseases and biliousness. The plant parts also posses anti-dandruff properties and hence used in hair oil preparations.

Other uses: A drop of the sap from foliage preserves milk against curdling without spoiling its taste! A blue dye called 'pala indigo' is prepared from the leaves. The leaves are relished by cattle and sheep besides being useful as green manure.

GARDENING

The tree is a moderate light demander and often occurs as an undergrowth species in deciduous forests and produces root-suckers. Under cultivation it grows well in any garden soil. It can be easily propagated using seeds and stem cuttings. Raise the seeds in a seed pan or a seedbed. Transplant when they are 6-8 leaved to a pot or a polybag containing garden soil. Transplant them to a planting location during the next rainy season. Stem cuttings root readily in sand under the sun. The tree can be micro-propagated by tissue culture also.

WHERE TO SEE

On many roads, parks and wastelands; more specifically at Kukkarahalli Lake area and Bogadi Road near the entrance to Manasagangothri campus.

Interview with "Mrs. India Universe" winner Dr. Hemamalini Lakshman

'Beauty is of no use without Brains'

Why should beauty pageants be restricted to unmarried girls alone? After marriage, it is only hearth and home, the girls were firmly told but the world is going through a metamorphosis and so are the women, their families and their mindsets. Husbands are becoming supportive of their wives' dreams and families more encouraging. Getting married shouldn't stop you from pursuing a dream or even a career in one's chosen field. Hemamalini, wife of Dr. K. Lakshman of Kannan Lab in city and mother of two, is one such woman. A Ph.D holder in English Literature, Dr. Hemamalini was recently crowned "Mrs. India Universe Queen" at the Dazzles Mrs. India Universe Beauty Pageant held in Colombo, Sri Lanka. On behalf of Star of Mysore, Sujata Rajpal spoke to the beauty queen from Namma Mysuru. Excerpts...

By Sujata Rajpal

Star of Mysore (SOM): How did you feel when you heard your name being announced as the winner?

Hemamalini: I had goosebumps when it was announced to a packed auditorium that the winner is from Mysuru. It feels great when people say I have made my city proud. It's a victory for Mysuru than a personal accreditation for myself.

SOM: Tell us about yourself. Was it always your dream to win a beauty pageant?

Hemamalini: The tiara has always fascinated me. Since my childhood, I have been interested in fashion and won prizes in school and college in beauty contests but I equally excelled at academics. I am a gold medallist in English Literature. I got married at the age of 20 and then family responsibilities naturally and happily took precedence over my dream. I have lived in Chennai and Salem and made Mysuru my home after marriage.

SOM: Must have been challenging to balance family and education...

Hemamalini: I was only a plain graduate when I got married. I did my Master's and Doctorate after marriage. It was challenging to balance studies, family and children but a supportive family made it all possible. Today whatever I have achieved in life, it is only because of the support of my husband.

SOM: Who is your role model?

Hemamalini: I believe in having real-life role models who are closer to reality. My mother Rajivi Jayakumar is my inspiration and role model. Even as a child, I was in awe with her commitment towards family. It's amazing the way she balances between family, the outside world and her social responsibilities.

SOM: For a woman, especially for a married woman, how important is it to have family support?

Hemamalini: There is no denying the fact that behind every successful woman, there is her entire family. Ditto for me. I am extremely fortunate to have a family who is very encouraging towards me. During the run up to the event, whenever I was in self-doubt, my husband Lakshman was there to help me bounce back.

SOM: Were they your critics, fine tuning your path to Mrs. India Universe?

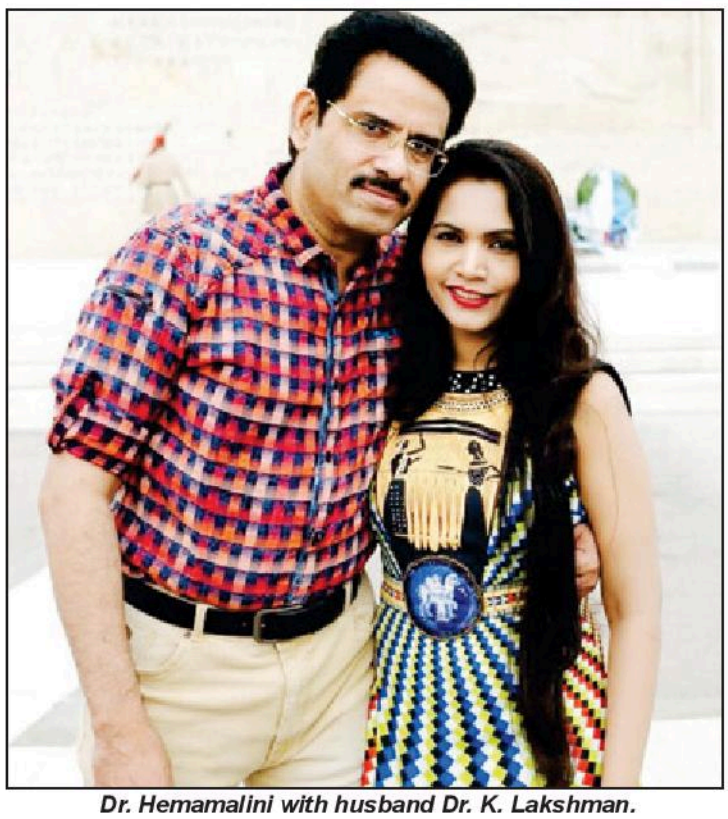
Hemamalini: My husband and children not only encouraged me at every step but also didn't hesitate to give their two cents on what type of outfits look flattering on me and also helped me in preparing answers, in research for my presentation and in everything else that was important for the success. The most important was the stress-free atmosphere at home which kept away the pressure and allowed me to give my best.

SOM: How did you prepare for the mega event?

Hemamalini: Those who think beauty queens walk the ramp and the tiara automatically sits on their head are living in a fantasy world. It requires hard work and perseverance. Beauty might be in-born but it is of utmost importance to polish the beauty both outside as well as inside. It was a rigorous preparation for almost a year. My day started with one hour of yoga early morning followed by being informed about current affairs. I attended grooming classes to help me face the contest confidently. I learnt how to maintain physical appearance, ramp walk, posture, and also the tips to face question-answer rounds with confidence. I had to regularly follow fashion updates. The contestants were asked to make a presentation on violence against women. Tremendous amount of research was required to make this 15- minute presentation.

SOM: What were the types of rounds one had to go through?

Hemamalini: There were ten rounds in all — ethnic, fitness, talent, Hawaiian, white and red, cocktail round etc. There were 26 contestants from all over India. I was confident but also had an open mind. In a competition, there can be surprises.



Dr. Hemamalini with husband Dr. K. Lakshman.

SOM: Beauty or brain. Which is more important to win a beauty pageant?

Hemamalini: Beauty, of course, is primary in a beauty contest but brains are equally important. One obviously can't be a dumb beauty. Intelligence comes into action to maintain the physical beauty, to carry oneself well, good communication skills and, of course, the overall confidence comes only with brains. If not for brains, there is no way beauty is of any use.

SOM: India has been declared the most dangerous country for women, what do you have to say about it?

Hemamalini: It is very unfortunate that despite technological advancement, women are subjected to cruelty. We can't blame men alone for this. Women should stop suffering in silence. Awareness of our rights and education is the twin formula to make India a safer place for women. Also the empowered class must help bring about this awareness to the underprivileged so women will have the strength to at least report incidents.

SOM: What is your advice to beauty pageant aspirants?

Hemamalini: Hard work and dedication are very important for success in any field. Have a clear vision but work towards it. Just dreaming is not enough. One needs to take care of oneself which includes fitness, grooming and reading. Yes, it's important to be aware of the world around you. Drink lots of water and have only fresh food.

SOM: What are your future plans?

Hemamalini: Currently I am writing my first book. I also plan to conduct workshops for aspiring women who want to participate in beauty pageants.

Harangi Dam full, four crest gates open

Kushalnagar, July 8- The four crest gates of Harangi Dam in Somwarpet taluk of Kodagu were opened yesterday releasing water to KRS Dam. The gates were opened at 4 pm yesterday and 1,200 cusecs of water was released as the first instalment. Henceforth, the gates will be open as and when the storage capacity increases.

Following water release from Harangi, the water level at KRS will see an increase. The Dam's today's level stands at 108.77 feet with an inflow of 3,066 cusecs and an outflow of 3,482 cusecs. The maximum level is 124.80 cusecs.

The Harangi Dam is an important reservoir along the Cauvery Basin and rainwater has to collect in this dam first for it to flow into the KRS, irrigating lakhs of hectares of paddy and sugarcane fields. Last year, the Dam touched its maximum level on July 23 and this year, the maximum level was reached on July 7, 16 days early.

Thanks to copious rains in Kodagu, the Dam recorded 2,856 ft water at 5 pm yesterday.

The maximum level of the Harangi Dam is 2,859 ft and there was an inflow of 24,450 cusecs. The water from Harangi Dam reaches the KRS Dam through Harangi River near Koodige.

The Harangi Dam can hold 8.5 tmcft (thousand million cubic feet) of water and the present storage level is 7.25 tmcft. Moments before the gates were opened, warning siren was sounded three times for the people in the river and on the edges to move to safety.

Muniyappa said that already, 30 Creta vehicles in Mysuru have been scanned and the suspect vehicle has not been traced. "We have informed all Hyundai showrooms and all service/ repair garages to inform the Police if a Creta owner comes there to repair the vehicle. They have been warned that action will be taken against them if the vehicle is repaired clandestinely," he said.

Parts like bumper and side-view mirrors can be bought only in showrooms and authorised agencies. "We have informed all of them to keep an eye on such vehicles," he added.

The Police are also scanning CCTV footages recorded on that day at Chamundi Hill, Zoo, Karanji Lake and surrounding areas. "We have identified a Creta that has been captured in CCTV visuals at that particular time but we have not been successful in tracing its registration number. We will soon identify the killer vehicle driver who remorselessly and callously drove away after causing the accident," the Police officer said.

Yesterday, Namana's vital organs were transported from Apollo BGS Hospital, Kuvempunagar, to Global Apollo Hospital at Kengeri near Bengaluru. Book talk

New book on Kodava death rituals

Noted artist Nellamakkada B. Kaverappa has written a book titled "Kodavara Saavu Paddathi" which deals with the death rituals involving Kodavas. The book was recently released to mark the 150th birth anniversary of Kodava poet and dramatist Haradasa Appanneravanda Appacha Kavi.

Kaverappa

It is a unique book on the death-related rituals of Kodavas to be followed by Kodavas living outside Kodagu in cities like Mysuru and Bengaluru. The book explains customs and traditions to be followed after a person dies.

According to the author, Kodavas living in other towns and cities are finding it very difficult to follow all the rituals connected to death as is being followed in Kodagu. Many rituals are being left out and many are being performed wrongly. The book has been written after a year-long research.

The book is in two parts — from the time of death till cremation and after cremation till the completion of Deeksha. The author says there is no need for any priests as the rituals will be conducted by a Kodava "Aruva". The book is written in Kannada with Kodava names of all rituals and it is a must-read for a Kodava.

About the author

Born in Kodagu on Jan.1, 1950 to Nellamakkada Bopaiah and Nanjamma, Kaverappa served as a teacher and also the judicial department. Since childhood, he was interested in art and writing and he studied art from M.T.V. Acharya who was a painter, illustrator and art educator, most famous for his work for the popular Indian children's magazine Chandamama.

In 1994, Kaverappa established Bharani Art Gallery, the first private art gallery of Mysuru. This is the only private gallery that is given free for artists along with a guest room. So far, Bharani has conducted more than 100 exhibitions. He has also written a book in Kannada on the life and sculptures of artist Kiran Subbaiah. He has translated two books for Lalitha Kala Akademi.

Copies of the book are available at Mysuru and Bengaluru Kodava Samajas. The author can be contacted on Mob: 94485-54221. —OSR

Sochi, July 8- Ivan Rakitic scored the winning penalty as Croatia beat Russia 4-3 in a shoot-out after a dramatic 2-2 draw on Saturday to end the World Cup hopes of the host nation and advance to a semi-final against England.

Brazilian-born Mario Fernandes had kept Russia's dream alive when he headed home in the 115th minute to level the scores and force penalties, but he and Fedor Smolov both failed to convert their spot-kicks in Sochi.

Croatia, for whom Andrej Kramaric and Domagoj Vida had earlier found the net, advance to their first World Cup semi-final since 1998. They will face England, who beat Sweden 2-0 earlier, at the Luzhniki Stadium Moscow on Wednesday (July 11 at 11.30 pm IST).

Croatia's players celebrate their winning penalty during the FIFA World Cup 2018 quarterfinal against hosts Russia.

Wimbledon 2018

Rafael Nadal enters fourth round

London, July 8- Rafael Nadal sailed into the fourth round in the men's singles event at Wimbeledon 2018 when he beat Australian Alex de Minaur a 6-1 6-2 6-4 in a well contested encounter.

The Alicante-based 19-year-old played his part in an entertaining duel as he chased after everything Nadal could throw at him — and in turn kept the Spaniard on Centre Court longer than he would have liked.

But the World No.1, chasing a third title at the All England Club, stuck to his own game plan to ensure he reached the second week of the grasscourt major without dropping a set.

Juan Martin del Potro made the last 16 for the first time in five years when the Argentine fifth seed defeated France's Benoît Paire 6-4, 7-6 (7/4), 6-3.

Halep stunned

World number one and French Open champion Simona Halep was knocked out of Wimbledon on Saturday, losing to Taiwan's Hsieh Su-Wei 3-6, 6-4, 7-5 in the third round as the All England Club seeds' carnage claimed another victim. Defeat for Halep means that Karolina Pliskova, at number seven, is the only women's top 10 seed to reach the fourth round.

Other early winners on Saturday included Belgium's Alison Van Uytvanck who followed her upset of defending champion Garbine Muguruza by beating Anett Kontaveit, the 28th seeded Estonian, 6-2, 6-3.

Van Uytvanck will meet fellow last-16 debutant Russian 14th seed Daria Kasatkina, who defeated Ashleigh Barty of Australia 7-5, 6-3. N. Djokovic beat K. Edmund 4-6, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4 while K. Nisikori beat N.Kyrgios 6-1, 7-6 (3), 6-4 in the third round of the men's singles.

In the women's singles, A. Kerber beat N. Osuka 6-2, 6-4 to progress further.

WORD OF THE DAY

Menagerie

Pronunciation: muh-NAJ-uh-ree (noun).

Meaning: A place where animals are kept and trained especially for exhibition. A collection of wild or foreign animals kept especially for exhibition.

Origin: Back in the days of Middle French, ménagerie meant "the management of a household or farm" or "a place where animals are tended." By the late 1600s, English speakers had adopted the word but dropped its housekeeping aspects, applying it specifically to the places where circuses and other exhibitions kept show animals. Later, menagerie was generalised to refer to any varied mixture, especially one that includes things that are strange or foreign to one's experience.

Examples: "Joe proved a quick country convert, taking ownership of the grounds and the growing menagerie, which now includes eight Icelandic sheep, eight Bantam chickens, and two collies." — Caroline Collins McKenzie, Country Living, December 2017

"I can never find my keys in the four pockets in my pants. So the typical golf bag, with its menagerie of zippers and storage, presents a particular nightmare of lost essentials." — Tom Chiarella, Popular Mechanics, June 2017.

THE ODD WORD

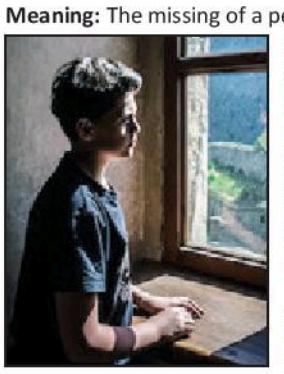
Jocose

Given to joking : merry; characterised by joking: humorous.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Absence makes the heart grow fonder

Meaning: The missing of a person or thing increases the desire for it.



Origin: The Roman poet Sextus Propertius gave us the earliest form of this saying in Elegies:

"Always toward absent lovers love's tide stronger flows."

Absence makes the heart grow stronger. The contemporary version appears in The Pocket Magazine of Classic and Polite Literature, 1832, in a piece by a Miss Stickland:

'Tis absense, however, that makes the heart grow fonder.

As with many proverbial sayings there is another that expresses the exact opposite point of view - 'out of sight, out of mind'.

'Absence makes the heart grow fonder' was also source material for the lewd wordplay:

"Absinthe makes the fart grow stronger".

QUOTE BOX

Be not afraid of going slowly, be afraid only of standing still.
